

As long as it is proven that cellular phones do not interfere with onboard navigational equipment, I feel that they should be allowed after takeoff and end prior to landing.